Admission Prospectus 2017

Vice Chancellor's Message

Your worthiness and endurance will be on test, like that of the ship that leaves the shore for its first voyage across the ocean. The University will be your second home. Your classmates, fellow boarders and teachers will substitute your family. You will be the youngest members of the large BGSBU family and will, therefore, receive love and attention from all quarters.

It gives me immense pleasure to note that the process of admission for the session starting in July 2017 has been initiated with the publication of 13th Admission Prospectus. We shall soon have a fresh crop of young men and women charged with new hopes and aspirations. They will step into the shoes of their seniors who left the portals of the University to face the rough and tumble of life. For you who will join in their place we wish fruitful years of joy and learning to shape your destiny.

Many of you may be leaving home for first time. Your worthiness and endurance will be on test, like that of the ship that leaves the shore for its first voyage across the ocean. The University will be your second home. Your classmates, fellow boarders and teachers will substitute your family. You will be the youngest members of the large BGSBU family and will, therefore, receive love and attention from all quarters. All you need to do is to have confidence in yourself and repose trust in the University community.

We are endeavouring to make this University emerge as a centre of excellence in higher education. As such, efforts are being made to provide you rich library, state-of-art laboratories, uninterrupted internet connectivity, cozy boarding houses and above all excellent teaching faculty for whom teaching is a passion. In a little over a decade we have morphed the desolate stretch of hills and dales dotted with shrubby outgrowth into an Institute of higher and technical education. This was possible through collective action. The University is already at top of the hill. Your inputs should take it to greater heights.

I wish you happy stay on the campus and success in realizing your dreams!

Vice Chancellor's Message

The university has just completed the first decade of its existence and stepped into the next. It is therefore, an occasion to look back and see how far we have come and how the journey was all these years. Like any other our journey too had many rough and uneven patches. We negotiated them with resolve and confidence and continued the march with great degree of determination. We started with 4 teaching Departments and total strength of 92 students. Over the years the number of postgraduate programmes has swollen to 15 and the student enrolment has touched 2,000. The university also has the College of Engineering, Polytechnic and Centre for Biodiversity Studies.

More than all this the decade has witnessed birth and growth of vibrant research groups in all Schools with young men and women busy in path-breaking creative works. The research pursuits of the university are liberally funded by different agencies of the Govt. of India.

All this is attestation of the fact that the ten years journey has put us on the right track. Should we continue to work with the same unwavering conviction with which we worked hitherto and keep excellence as our goal the university will attain greater heights as we grow and expand.

Despite the initial short comings and limitations our alumni have done us proud by securing placements in prestigious organizations throughout the country. With the quality and range of facilities having improved over the years those who join the university now can attain new horizons.

I feel happy in releasing the 11th Admission Prospectus and inviting ignited young boys and girls to join us in making the university a lighthouse of knowledge.

Vice Chancellor's Message

After brisk activity set in motion with generous funding by the University Grants Commission and the State Government, never before could we venture to undertake construction work of the scale as we did this year. We feel satisfied to have come a long way from our humble past. We endeavour to upgrade the infrastructure and make ideal ambience for higher learning and research to flourish.

A major achievement of the University this year is to have produced 17 M. Phil. passouts in five disciplines: Arabic, Computer Sciences, Mathematics, Business Management, Biotechnology, and one Ph. D thesis submitted in Botany. We realize that all beginnings have rough patches which need to be negotiated tactfully and with conviction. As we grow, there will be a beeline of students from outside the State for the various research programmes launched by the University with liberal funding from the Central Funding agencies.

Besides consolidating ongoing Masters and Undergraduate programmes, this year we shall introduce Masters Degree programme in Botany, Zoology, Economics, English, Computer Sciences, and Education.

The product of the University is being accepted by various employing agencies, including Corporate Houses and Universities on account of the effort being put in to help them develop necessary skills and the hands-on training.

Dedication of the teaching faculty, commitment of young students, support of administrative and supporting staff, and the patronage of our Hon'ble Chancellor, the University is on take off stage for greater strides in future.

I am sure that young minds will have a brighter future after they opt BGSB University for their overall growth.

INFORMATION BULLETIN 2013

Baba Chulam Shah Badshah University

Vice Chancellor's Message

The year that has passed was a year of brisk activity set in motion by generous funding by the University Grants Commission and the State Government. Never before could we venture to undertake construction work of the scale as we did this year. Looking back in time, we feel satisfied to have come a long way from our humble past, of which we feel justly proud, for it is in humility that the seeds of excellence sprout. Expansion is necessary for a venture such as the one we are pursuing. Our endeavour is to upgrade the existing infrastructure and make it worldclass to create ambience ideal for higher learning and research.

A major achievement of the University this year is to have produced the first batch of M.Phil passouts in four disciplines: Arabic, Computer Sciences, Business Management and Biotechnology. It is certainly an achievement looking to the difficulties that had to be surmounted. We realize that all beginnings have rough patches which need to be negotiated tactfully and with conviction. The time is not far when Doctorates in different subjects will walkout of the portals of the University. It seems we are on the right path. Soon there will be a beeline of students from outside the state for the various research programmes launched by the University with liberal funding from Central Funding agencies.

Besides consolidating ongoing Masters and undergraduate programmes, this year we have introduced Masters programme in Mathematics, which shall cater to the need of students interested in pure Mathematics.

A matter of great satisfaction is that our product is being accepted by various employing agencies including Corporate Houses and Universities. This is because of the stupendous effort being put in to help them develop necessary skills and provide them hands-on training.

With the dedication of the teaching faculty, commitment of young men and women enrolled in various programmes, the support of administrative staff and the patronage of our Hon'ble Chancellor the University is set to make greater strides in the years ahead.
